The CAMEO

By Virginia Teale

Copyright, 1949, NEA SERVICE, INC.

The Story: Martin Falter has been murdered and the motive is connected with a valuable cameo which he was trying to sell. Hagar Blair, gift shop owner, found the man murdered and her assistant, Stephanie Smith, comes on the scene soon afterwards. When they go to Hagar's house, they find the cameo in Hagar's collection. Later, Andrew Yakov, who also has reasons for wanting the cameo, calls on Hagar and suggests that Hagar committed the crime. Meanwhile, Tom O'Neill, whose wife, Nell, owned the cameo, reports the murder to police. The O'Neills are questioned by Chief Peters and Charlie Reddy, a young lawyer who is the chief's assistant. Tom and Martin Falter had had an argument in public the day before.

As Tom and Nell O'Neill left the police station, they almost collided with a tall man in a gray suit who was waiting to enter. They exchanged apologies and the newcomer strolled up to the chief's desk.

"Chief Peters? My name is Trotter, James Trotter." He took a black leather folder from his inside pocket, opened it and extended it to Peters. Chief Peters inspected the folder and shook hands.

"What brings you to our little town, Inspector Trotter?" The visitor brought out his pipe and filled it while he answered. "Just between us," he specified, lighting his pipe with one match and four short puffs, "I was sent up from San Diego to dig around on a little matter that has connections here. Enjoying myself at the same time. Just when everything was getting along nicely, one of my characters up and gets him self murdered. Which means my dawdling days are over."

Charlie Reddy leaned forward.

attentively: "You mean Martin Falter, of course, sir?"

"Martin Falter, of course." He blew a rounded puff of fragrant smoke. "Ladies' man, confidant, man, blackmailer and self-styled artist."

Peters and Reddy tensed, the word came from both: "Blackmailer?"

Trotter passed his briar back and forth under his nose: "Served time for it early in his career. Specialty was rich old ladies who longed for the rejuvenating effect of one last fling."

Peters' fat face crumpled humorously. "Now that you mention it, I've heard a few stories." He turned to Reddy: "Remember the whirl he gave that old dame at the Inn — the one from Minneapolis?"

He had a pretty good modus operandi, explained Trotter. "He'd get the affair going at white heat, then take off on a 'short business trip.' While he was gone, he'd receive purple letters from the lady. Then he'd save the letters until such time as it would be profitable to wave them threateningly under the poor creature's nose. He made quite a good living that way."

Reddy looked puzzled. Hope this isn't out of order, sir, but I didn't know the bureau concerned itself with blackmail, as such."

"As such, we don't. But one of Falter's little coups," he was known as Michael Frazier, then, by the way — almost became an international incident. The lady in the play was the wife of a South American consul who eventually got wind of the routine and made a big to-do at the State Department. That happened 13 years ago. He paused to relight his pipe. "And, under the heading of History Repeats Itself, this current affair seems to have a foreign root or two. The country involved is one with which we want the least possible trouble at the present time."

"I don't need to tell you," the chief pronounced, "that all our facilities are at your disposal."

Trotter bowed his appreciation. "I think the best tack at the moment is to proceed separately. I'll amble around, pick up what I can sub rosa. We'll exchange information — okay, Chief Peters?"

"Fine with me," the chief agreed. "Reddy and I already have started interviewing sus-

Dying Youth Given New Hope for Life

Walterboro, S. C., Nov. 16 — (UP) — Past work by doctors here and officials of the Savannah Ga. Red Cross blood center last night gave three-year-old Jimmy S. a new hope for life.

Jimmy suffering from a rare blood disease which makes frequent transfusion necessary, began sinking fast in a hospital here last night.

Officials called on the Savannah blood center for help. But Jimmy's blood is the rarest type — AB-negative. And the bank's supply of that type was exhausted.

Two donors were summoned immediately. Staff Sgt. Edward Heimrich of haltham field and Phil Schenk of Savannah gave their blood for Jimmy, and within 45 minutes it had been flown 55 miles to Walterboro in a private plane.

The blood was rushed to the hospital and given to the sick boy. He rallied immediately.

Today he was reported in an "improved" condition. Doctors said he would be given another transfusion tomorrow.

We began with Nell and Tom O'Neill. Tom found the body this morning. This afternoon Reddy and I'll see what we can find out from Hagar Blair — a sharp old character who runs a shop in town. We'll also question a Miss Smith who lives with her and helps out in the store. Miss Smith is a hot one — in connection with the murder, I mean. Cab driver in town left her at Falter's place about 8 o'clock."

Trotter raised his eyebrows: "Miss Smith, eh? Mind if I follow that up, too, Peters?"

"Not at all. Shop where she works is around on Ocean Highway, across the alley from the Glove Garage. Three Wishes Gift Shop, it's called. Watch your step with Hagar Blair, though. She's bawky as a mule and twice as smart."

"Thanks," Trotter shook hands as he left. "I'm at the inn, if you want to reach me."

There was a lengthy silence in the police chief's office as the two occupants mulled over the happenings of the last few hours.

Reddy brought out a small notebook, scribbled in it and returned it to his coat. The chief drummed his fat fingers on his desk: "Any opinions, Reddy?"

Reddy replied: "I've started a list of suspects; it starts with Stephanie Smith's name and the O'Neills. None of them sounds like a hot prospect to me, though."

"Me, either," the chief admitted. "Way I look at it, Tom hasn't got the guts, and his wife wouldn't give enough of a damn about anything. Fish, fish or fowl, to fill it. And the Smith girl's unlikely, because Falter didn't fool around with young stuff."

Reddy folded his notebook. "How about going back up to Falter's right now and taking another look around?"

NASH IS FIRST AGAIN - IN POWER!

NOW!

SUPER-COMPRESSION ENGINES THAT ARE RECORD PERFORMERS ON REGULAR GASOLINE

Nash engineers have done it again! Now — for the first time — you can have all the thrill of super-compression power on regular gasoline!

You'd expect the company that's been ahead in the power parade for a third of a century to stay ahead — but wait 'til you drive a 1950 Nash Airflyte.

Take out a new Nash Ambassador. Its Turbo-head engine has a 7.3 to 1 ratio. Fill it up with "regular" — then tackle the worst hill you know — take the challenge of any other car at the traffic light.

And let the throttle tell the story!

Check your gas mileage for another surprise. No other car of Nash Ambassador size can come anywhere close to it in miles to the gallon.

And the Nash Statesman, with its high-compression engine, is equally outstanding in its class — with over 25 miles to the gallon at average highway speed.

What has Nash got the others haven't? Exclusive sealed-in manifolds, for one thing. They utilize the leanest of mixtures. Uniflo-Jet Carburetion, for another. It means smoother performance.

20.7% Less Air Drag

Then, these great engines get another boost from America's best aerodynamic design — for Airflyte design has 20.7% less air drag than the average of nine other current cars tested.

And Nash alone has Airflyte Construction that is stronger, safer, without useless weight.

Now—Hydra-Matic Drive

For the best test of all, see your Nash dealer and get the thrill yourself of Airflyte high-compression power. Try it in the Nash Ambassador with Hydra-Matic Drive (optional extra) and exclusive Selecto-Lift Starting.

And let the throttle tell the story!

New Lower Prices—$73 to $140 less than last year!

See the new and finer 1950 Nash Airflytes, with Super-Compression Power, Skyliner Lounge Interiors, and dozens of other new features, all priced far less than last year. Compare value—compare prices—you'll agree they are the best buy today.

DOROTHY DIX Desperate Mother

Dear Miss Dix: My daughter, 8 and one-half years old, seems to be steadily growing worse in behavior and is now almost incorrigible. She behaves well in school but I cannot make her understand that she must obey laws of discipline. What would you advise doing?

Answer: Why, a little girl of 8 and one-half is still a baby, and the idea of putting her in any institution of discipline is horrible. It would brand her for life. Don't even think of such a thing again and advise her never to let the child know that you ever contemplated taking such a step.

The only excuse for putting a child of that age in an institution would be if she had shown some serious disturbance, or if she were a hopeless idiot.

Trouble Lies in Home
The fact that the child behaves well in school makes me feel sure that the trouble is in your home and in your method of handling her. Instead of trying to reform her why not try to find out what is wrong with your methods? Perhaps you are too strict with her. Instead of ordering your little girl to do this or that why not try suggesting things to her? Why not use tact and diplomacy in dealing with her? Why not use a little flattery instead of perpetual fault-finding and criticism?

Children are peculiarly sensitive to suggestion. They try to live up to what you think they are. If you are always telling them they are little hellions, little hellions they will be to justify their reputation.

Children love the limelight and there is no way you can discipline them quicker than just by turning it off them. So if your little girl is obstreperous and hard to get along with just realize she is having the time of her life harassing you. Just let her alone. Let her have her own sweet way and reap the consequences of it for a while. Neglect her. There won't be a bit of fun in raising her if she is left to do it by herself.

Evidently you and the little girl need to be parted for a while. Send her to a good summer camp. I have seen that work wonders in a child. And when she comes back to you, just let her be a grownup. That will put it up to her to act like one.

Dear Miss Dix: What do you think of a wife who has always

St. Louis, Nov. 16 — (AP) — The nation will have to depend on words for a description of Vice President Barkley's marriage to Mrs. Carleton S. Hadley Friday. There will be no pictures of the actual ceremony.

Only 34 guests and a handful of newspaper and radio reporters will be inside the chapel of St. Johns Methodist church.

Television cameras and newspaper photographers will be outside, viewing the party as it arrives and leaves. A luncheon to follow the ceremony will be telecast and photographed.

Arkansas Baptists Asked to Amend Constitution

Little Rock, Nov. 16 — (AP) — Arkansas Baptists have been asked to amend their constitution to protect their fundamental doctrine.

The Rev. John L. Dodge, Hot Springs, proposed at the opening session of the Arkansas Baptist convention here yesterday a denunciation of "growing liberalism" in certain doctrines.

The proposed amendment condemns baptism in another faith, open communion, acceptance of elected rather than ordained deacons, membership or cooperation with the federal council of churches or the world council of churches.

Any Arkansas Baptist church practicing such "liberalism" would

Around the Sports Loop in Arkansas

By CARL BELL

Little Rock, Nov. 16 (AP) — As it turned out it was pretty stupid to pick Arkansas to beat

SMU, and I'm ready to eat crow.

But while sitting in the dance's corner we have the company of the Razorbacks. After the 34-8 slaughter at Dallas last Saturday the worst licking any of his Arkansas teams has suffered, Barnhill commented.

"They just beat us."

My impression was that the Mustangs rather than overpowered them. The Porkers, simply outsmarted them.

Arkansas' pass defense was never worse. Even high wobbly passes which ought to have been easy to bat down or intercept were completed. The Porkers' defensive backs sometimes just stood and watched receivers catch the tosses before doing anything about them.

Only one SMU receiver went downfield, but he was all by himself when the ball arrived.

The Arkansas linemen then let down, probably figuring there was no use in their battling their brains out when their secondary was playing the part of spectators. Once after receiving a snap from center the Mustangs' Doak Walker had plenty of time before he threw a successful pass.

It was just as bad around too. Walker, who certainly was All-America Saturday outgassed Arkansas on nearly every play. And the Mustangs got more deception out of their peculiar single wing than afternoon than the Razorbacks have gotten from their T all season.

Quachita's athletes are hoping that college will drop inter-scholastic football if it does away with a sub-sidization. Then they would be eligible to play next year at some other school. Many will help them financially. Many of them told an Associated Press correspondent they could not afford to stay at Quachita on their own.

If you think college athletics are high-pressure business how about this one?

East Arkansas high school official recently tried to persuade a Conway family to move to his town. His interest was in one member of the family — a junior high school boy who has shown much football promise.

Arkansas Is Rated 6 Points Over W & M

New York, Nov. 16 — (AP) — It's Michigan by 6 1-2 points and Minnesota by 13 1-2 in the big games Saturday that settle a couple of important football issues in the midlands.

The odds-makers thus have prescribed an economy-sized head-on for the men who must pick the Western conference representative in the Rose bowl.

Michigan is to play Ohio State at Ann Arbor while Minnesota plays Wisconsin at Minneapolis.

Should the Wolverines and Gophers prevail as predicted the Big Ten championship would be decided in Michigan's favor for the third straight year but the bowl picture would be complete confusion.

Ohio State, which now shares the league lead with Michigan would be tied with Minnesota with a 4-2 mark and Illinois could even horn in with a claim by trimming Northwestern.

The Buckeyes could simplify matters by upsetting Michigan and taking the whole works — the Big Ten title and the bowl too. Michigan is ineligible to return to Pasadena because it was a visitor there two years ago.

Another contingency — a Wisconsin victory and an Ohio State defeat — would put the Badgers in there.

Out on the Pacific coast unbeaten California Bears rule a 1-2 point favorite over Stanford although the fray is at the Indians' stomping grounds in Palo Alto. The winner will be Rose bowl bound.

Virginia, rated ninth is the only one of the nation's top ten expected to take it on the chin this week. The Cavaliers are 12 1-2 point underdogs in their game with Tulane.

Top-rated, Notre Dame is favored for another romp — a 33-point pick over Iowa. Second-ranked Oklahoma is 20 over Santa Clara. Army No. 4, is idle pointing to navy a week later.

In other games Missouri is rated six points over Kansas and Kansas there over William and Mary.

Most Schools to Continue Subsidization

By The Associated Press

Most members of the Arkansas Intercollegiate conference plan to continue giving their athletes financial assistance.

This was disclosed by a survey of the views of the college presidents Tuesday night.

Hendrix college has not been subsidizing its athletes and Quachita has announced plans to stop such practice. Hendrix is a Methodist school. Quachita is a Baptist college.

Heads of seven of the 11 AIC institutions said no changes in their aid-to-athletes programs are planned. These are Arkansas Tech, College of the Ozarks, Magnolia A. and M. Arkansas State, Arkansas college, Henderson, State Teachers and Arkansas State Teachers.

Presidents of Arkansas A. and M. of Monticello and Little Rock Junior college could not be reached for comment.

President Matt L. Ellis of Henderson said that while his school will not start a subsidizing athletes "we're not satisfied with our set-up."

"If we were going to have first class football in Arkansas colleges," commented President Charles S. Wilkins of Magnolia, "we are going to have to help our boys or they'll go out of the state."

President J. W. Hull of Arkansas Tech said:

"To me open subsidization is the only honest way to conduct your athletic program. A simple pure program never has worked."
